

The specimen's center of gravity was coincident with this point (middle region of section with the smallest diameter) in the longitudinal axis, and with the symmetry axis in the transverse section.

